

MARSHALL A GREAT PATRIOT: EISENHOWER

Three Senators Renominated In Primaries

GOP Organization Suffers Setback In Kansas Election

By United Press
Three senators won renomination and the Kansas Republican organization suffered a serious setback in four primary elections.

No major upsets were posted as voters chose candidates in Michigan, West Virginia, Kansas and Missouri Tuesday.

But in Kansas GOP party leaders failed in their attempt to head off Lt. Gov. Fred Hall's bid for the gubernatorial nomination.

Hall, who campaigned on an "it's time for a change" platform, claimed victory early today in his race against George Templar, Templar, a former federal district attorney, had the backing of top GOP office holders and officials.

Nominees Listed
The senators who won renomination against lesser known or no opposition were:

Democrat Matthew M. Neely of West Virginia. He brushed aside three rivals in his bid for a fifth term, unprecedented in the state. With 2,218 out of 2,825 precincts counted, Neely had a 131,744 to 45,205 vote edge over all his opponents.

Republican Andrew F. Schoepel, senior senator from Kansas. He jumped ahead early in the race against two opponents without political records and was never headed.

Republican Homer Ferguson, unopposed in the Michigan senatorial primary.

Rep. Dewey Short's bid to win his 13th term from Missouri's 7th District topped a long list of congressional races. Short was hard pressed at first in the GOP race, but rural ballots gave him a 6,000-vote edge by the time state Sen. Noel Cox conceded.

Most Turnout Normal
The voting in all states except Missouri was normal or larger than expected. In Missouri the lack of any top statewide race attracted the lowest vote in 39 years.

Two other senatorial primaries later this week overshadowed Tuesday's races in national attention. Democratic Sen. Estes Kefauver will be fighting for his political life against Rep. Pat Suttin in Wednesday's Tennessee primary.

On Thursday Kentucky Democrats were expected to give former vice president Alben W. Barkley a chance to regain the Senate seat he held during the New Deal era.

Other primary highlights:
Kansas

Hall held a 90,275 to 78,599 lead over Templar with 2,262 out of 2,922 precincts counted. George Docking led in the race for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination and former Senator George McGill, whom Schoepel defeated in 1948, was picked by the Democrats to run again in November.

The state's six congressmen were all renominated, three without opposition.

Michigan
Republicans appeared to have chosen former State Police Commissioner Donald S. Leonard to contest Gov. G. Mennen Williams' bid for a fourth term. The Democratic senatorial nomination went to former Detroit city councilman Patrick V. McNamara, although former Senator Blair Moody, who died during the campaign, drew a heavy vote. All congressional incumbents with opposition were in the lead.

Missouri
All Missouri's 11 incumbent congressmen were renominated.

West Virginia
Tom Sweeney, twice a Republican candidate for senator, won handily over attorney Latelle M. Lafollette in the GOP senatorial race. The state's six representatives were renominated, four without opposition.

Wells Discusses Sanitation in Kiwanis Talk

Need for more sanitation in the three county area of the Egyptian Health department was discussed last night by Dr. J. H. Wells in an address before members of the Kiwanis club. Dr. Wells is health doctor for the Saline-Gallatin-White health department.

He urged the support of clubs in the area for better garbage collection, ordinances for the enforcement of sanitation laws to get rid of outdoor toilets and sewage and water inspection.

Senate-House Committee Compromise on Aid Bill

By United Press
A Senate-House conference committee compromised today on the administration's foreign aid program and restored nearly three-fourths of the amount slashed by the Senate.

The middle ground figure of $3,054,568,000 still is considerably short of Mr. Eisenhower's original request for $3,440,000,000. But it is more acceptable than the Senate version which brought vigorous protests from the chief executive.

The conference committee acted shortly after Mr. Eisenhower told his news conference it was very unfortunate the Senate cut 420 million dollars from the foreign aid authorization measure. The House and the Senate Foreign Relations Committee previously had whittled away on the request.

Action on a separate bill to provide actual money for the authorization will come before Congress later.

Other developments: McCarthy: Progress was reported being made in picking the select committee which will study executive action against Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy. Three Republican and three Democratic senators are to be chosen. Both GOP Leader William F. Knowland (Calif.) and Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson (Tex.) denied that they have had any "turndowns" from possible appointees to the committee.

Racketeering: A House subcommittee got more testimony of payoffs to union officials on painting jobs. Louis M. Bell, president of the All States Contracting and Decorating Co., Chicago, said he paid $500 to an AFL Painter Union official to help speed up an Army painting job at Ft. Belvoir, Va. He said the money went to Robert C. Lowry, secretary-treasurer of the local district council. Lowry denied the accusation.

Farm: The Senate was scheduled to take up the controversial farm issue. Supporters of the administration program predicted victory.

80 Attend Saline County Historical Society Meeting, Tour of Shawneetown

Eighty people were in attendance at the Saline County Historical society meeting held yesterday evening at the Old Shawneetown State park. The program consisted of a tour of historical buildings, potluck dinner and a session devoted to the history of the State's oldest town.

Louis Aaron, a student of Shawneetown history, directed the evening's festivities. A prepared mimeographed paper, giving basic historical facts concerning the old buildings pointed out on the tour, was handed to each person present.

Aaron led the group on the tour which included the state bank building, Posey building, Marshall house, Carroll-Richeson mansion, Lafayette hotel, the Robert and Henry Peoples house, the McMurphy, Rowan, Lowe houses, and the Methodist church.

Tour of Hotel
Mrs. Lela Horlick, proprietress of the Lafayette hotel, conducted the group on a tour of that premises.

Following a bountiful potluck supper staged at the park in Old Shawneetown, Mr. Aaron emceed the session on reminiscences by natives of Shawneetown. Ike Williams, Eldorado, opened this part of the program by reading his original poem entitled, "Shawneetown."

Attorney Joe Bartley gave some historical data on the original platting of the community, dates and names of early settlers and a general insight into the booming metropolis that was Old Shawneetown in the mid-19th century. Bartley commented on the wealth that was once concentrated in the area both in land ownings and personal.

He also related the incident of the Chicago settlers seeking a loan from Shawneetown banks. Bartley recalled that tobacco and salt were great exported items of the early days and that the community was a hub of activity, largely due to the river transportation and its location as a gateway to the west.

Recall Early Incidents
Capt. Billy Hale, a ferry boat pilot on the river for more than 44 years, and Bill Zachmeier, government light keeper along the river for two decades, also gave some interesting sidelights and incidents of their time and recollection.

Hale told the group he learned the river's course and peculiarities as a youth and successfully passed

President Says Woodring Attack Is Sorry Reward

Describes Former Army Superior As Loyal American

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower today emotionally described Gen. George C. Marshall as a great and selfless American patriot.

Red-faced and speaking with great firmness, the President vigorously rejected charges against Marshall by former Secretary of War Harry H. Woodring, and indirectly rebuked Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis.).

Woodring had said in a letter that Marshall "would sell out his grandmother for personal advantage" and McCarthy had placed the letter in the Congressional Record.

The President said the attack on the soldier-statesman was a sorry reward after 50 years of service to his country. Mr. Eisenhower described his former Army superior as a loyal American who served according to his concept of duty.

In a quieter mood, Mr. Eisenhower also told reporters he intends to pursue as vigorously as possible his proposal for a world atoms-for-peace pool, despite Soviet resistance.

But he thought the United States should quit talking so much about world leadership and offer itself as a good partner.

On other subjects, the President said:

McCarthy Censure: Until the Senate makes up its own mind exactly what it wants to do about censuring McCarthy it would be unbecoming for him to comment. But he recognized the effect on party unity and that he had a responsibility to do what he could to remedy it.

Red China: The United States is completely opposed to admitting Red China to the United Nations under present conditions. But he said he is always ready to see whether the sinner repents and returns to the fold.

Campaign Issues: His own criteria will be: Has the record been a good one? He would look at it from the standpoint of whether the candidate in question has done his best to put over a program in keeping with the party platform and which was devised by party leaders for the benefit of all Americans.

His petitions contends the judgment was illegal, that he should have been sentenced under the grand larceny statute and that his term should have been one to 10 years.

Back to Nature

Editorial By Bruce Blossat
Summer is the time when millions of Americans take wing. They pile into their cars, or onto buses, trains and planes, and go about seeing their country.

For many of these folk it is not a matter of gadding around from one state to another, or one national part to another. They practically abandon the baking brick and steaming asphalt of the city for weeks or months, taking up residence in the green countryside or on a sandy beach.

This is for such people a time of renewal. It is that refreshing moment of the year when they are reminded of the elemental beauty of sky and land and water. They feel soft soil and grass beneath their feet.

By day they look at the sky alternately a brilliant azure and a pattern of blue puffed with the white of giant thunderheads. By night they see stars blinking like motionless fireflies seen against a black dome.

The friendly warmth of trees rich with foliage they find all about them. As the wind rustles through, it plays an ageless melody to recall man's ancient ties to the land.

The affinity seems closer on fragrant mornings, when dew wets the grass and makes the air come alive with pleasant odors. And the link is complete as birds fill the air with song.

Men belong to the land, indeed, to all nature. Some never forget it, but millions do. They often so divorce themselves from it that they come to believe they abhor it, and actually prefer the artificial world of stone and steel and smoke and grime.

Most psychologists will tell you that we all need a sense of belonging. But it is not enough to feel that we belong to other people, wonderfully satisfying though that is. We need to belong to a place.

The lucky ones have a patch of earth they can call their own, or at least can use and enjoy. The unfortunates have no piece of ground they can claim, nor none they can develop attachment for.

But the worst off are those who do not even yearn to see and feel and know nature at first hand. They imagine there are substitutes for this experience. But there are not. The land and sky and water make a rich reservoir of spiritual happiness. The land is an anchor that can help to steady us. We need the feeling of renewal and the sense of attachment that comes from identifying ourselves with nature's elements.

Our world might be a little saner if more of us remembered this.

Congressman Hits Stratton Failure to Get Drought Relief

SPRINGFIELD (CP) — A Democratic congressman charged today that Gov. W. G. Stratton has taken "no active action" to see that farmers in southern Illinois get "drought emergency relief."

Rep. Peter F. Mack Jr., Carlin-

ville, said in a statement issued by his office here that Stratton should certify parts of Illinois as suffering a "major disaster" of sufficient severity and magnitude to warrant federal assistance under public law 875.

To get federal money under this law, Mack said the governor must give assurance that the state and local governments will match federal drought relief grants.

State to Interview Motorists on Proposed Toll Roads

SPRINGFIELD (UP)—Motorists will be interviewed at downtown Illinois points starting Aug. 11 in a survey of proposed toll road routes, the Illinois Toll Highway Commission said today.

The interviewers are part of a traffic-revenue study by two engineering firms, seeking information on the origin, destination and volume of traffic along five proposed turnpike routes.

Crews have been interviewing motorists in the Chicago area for the past month. They will operate 23 stations in downtown Illinois on various dates between Aug. 11 and 27.

Stations will be near DeKalb, Sycamore, Hinckley, Somonauk, Morrison, Erie, Richmond, Harvard, Geneseo, Beloit, Rockton, Belvidere, Byron, Genoa, and the intersection of Ill. 92 and 78 in northern Illinois, and near Marshall, Olney, St. Elmo, Troy, Levan, New Baden, Salem and New town in southern Illinois.

The interview stations will be operated from 12 to 72 hours at each point.

Nip Attempt to Smuggle Diamonds

NEW YORK (UP)—Custom officials announced today that a new device which enables them to see through wood and other material had nipped an attempt to smuggle into the country a box containing 22 packages of commercial diamonds worth $200,000 wholesale.

Customs Collector Robert Dill announced that use of the new gadget — the "inspectoscope," which is similar to a fluoroscope in operation — led to the arrest Tuesday night of four persons charged with smuggling and conspiracy to smuggle.

The shipment was from Friedberg, Germany, and was addressed to David and Paula Klapholz of New York.

Custom agents arrested the couple Tuesday night. They also arrested Schulim J. Kanner and Mrs. Deborah Muller, both of Brooklyn,

No Night Hail

Hail seldom falls at night, for the same reason that it seldom falls in cool weather. The earth, being cooler at night, does not then furnish enough rising air currents to force raindrops to a sufficient height to freeze them.

Iran and West Agree to End Oil Dispute

TEHRAN, Iran — Iranian officials said today talks with Britain on ending the bloody and costly oil nationalization dispute "have been concluded."

The officials said, however, that last-minute hitches delayed official announcement of the agreement until Thursday.

Ending the dispute was seen as a victory for both the West, who will start receiving Iran's oil, and Iran, which had lost its greatest source of revenue.

Informed sources said the difficulties were minor and involved only a matter of "comparing" Iranian and English texts of an announcement ending the bitter, three-year dispute that has left more than 1,000 persons dead or injured.

The official communique now is scheduled to be released Thursday at 3 p. m. in Elahieh near Tehran.

Representatives of an eight-company oil combine, which includes five American firms, will give their version of the settlement which ends the tension begun three years ago when former Premier Mohammed Mossadegh nationalized the industry.

The agreement will permit the international combine to market Iran's oil abroad and furnish technical assistance for the industry.

It eventually will reduce financial aid from the United States, which has given Iran some 80 million dollars since Premier Fazlollah Zahedi overthrew the Mossadegh regime and sent the weeping dictator to jail.

Informed Iranian sources said, however, the United States has promised to continue giving Iran monetary aid until the oil revenue starts rolling into the national treasury again.

Five U. S. companies will lay hand to the pumps that were controlled by a British monopoly before Mossadegh nationalized the oil industry in 1951 and forced evacuation of the Anglo-Iranian Oil Co.

Reliable reports said the American companies—Standard Oil of New Jersey, Standard Oil of California, Socony-Vacuum, Texas Oil and Gulf Oil—have a 40 per cent share in the combine.

Anglo-Iranian has another 40 per cent, Royal Dutch Shell has 14 per cent and the Compagnie Francaise des Petroles French the remaining 6 per cent.

Lightning Sets Off $3.5 Million Distillery Fire

PEKIN, Ill. — Lightning touched off a spectacular fire at a distillery today destroying 3½ million dollars worth of whisky.

Firemen from several communities sped to the American Distillery Co. plant to answer the pre-dawn alarm.

A score of trucks poured water on the blaze and got it under control after about four hours' work.

A. H. Weston, company comptroller, said two rack warehouses in which whisky was stored in 50-gallon barrels to age were a total loss.

A third building, in which whisky was bottled for export, was "practically" a complete loss, Weston said.

He estimated the damage at 3½ million dollars and said most of the figure represented the loss of valuable whiskies.

No injuries were reported.

The distillery is situated on the Illinois river near a number of other big factories, including those of Corn Products Co., National Distillers, Standard Brands, and Quaker Oats.

Weston said the plant, one of several distilleries in the Peoria-Pekin area, employs about 600 per-

SIU Summer Commencement Exercises Aug. 13; To Present Honorary Degrees

CARBONDALE, Ill. — Dr. C. Horton Talley, acting director of the Division of Communications at Southern Illinois university, will be the speaker at SIU's summer commencement exercises Aug. 13, it was announced today.

Talley was selected by members of the graduating class to address the exercises at 7 p. m. in McCandrew Stadium. Formerly a speech teacher at Nebraska Wesleyan university and Texas State College for Women, Talley has been at Southern Illinois since 1948.

At the same time, it was announced that Lt. Gen. Robert W. Harper, recently retired commanding general of the U. S. Air Training Command who was to receive an honorary doctor of laws degree, will be unable to attend the ceremonies. The degree will be presented to him at commencement exercises next June.

Honorary degrees will be conferred on Dr. M. M. Leighton, chief of the Illinois Geological Survey, and Gen. John R. Hodge, a native of Golconda who formerly commanded the U. S. Third Army and American forces in Korea.

The doctor of laws degree for Hodge was approved by the SIU board of trustees in April and a doctor of science degree for Leighton was voted at a board meeting earlier this month.

Hodge, an Army officer for 36 years, was promoted to full general upon his retirement in June, 1953. In World War I he served with the 1st Infantry in France and in World War II spent six years in the Pacific, including the Solomon Islands, where he was wounded in action and was awarded the Distinguished Service Medal. Hodge commanded the 24th Corps in the invasion of Leyte and Okinawa.

From 1945 to 1948 he was commander of U. S. Forces in Korea and military governor of South Korea. Subsequently, he headed the Third Army and was Chief of Army Field Forces.

His many decorations include two clusters on the Distinguished Service medal, Legion of Merit, Air Medal, Navy Distinguished Service medal and French and Philippine Legion of Honor medals.

Dr. Leighton, a native of Wellman, Ia., was chief of the Illinois Geological Survey for 31 years. A teacher of geology in six universities and author of numerous books

Airline Files Suit Against Pilots' Union

CHICAGO — Striking pilots vowed to continue their crippling strike against American Airlines despite a $1,250,000 damage suit.

The suit, filed Tuesday in U. S. District Court at New York, accused the AFL Air Line Pilots Assn. of violating its contract when it called out 1,200 pilots Friday midnight.

The walkout has completely grounded the airline, the nation's largest air carrier.

In Chicago, ALPA President Clarence Sayen said the suit will "in no way hasten settlement" of the walkout.

"It in no way answers the one and only issue involved, which is the unilateral and arbitrary action of American Airlines in scheduling pilots to fly in excess of eight continuous hours," an ALPA statement said.

The ALPA maintains such flights result in pilot fatigue. It has threatened to call strikes against United Air Lines and Trans-World Airlines on the same issue.

American Airlines points to authorization of such flights by the Civil Aeronautics Board and a federal court's rejection of a union appeal. Officials of the line said the strike is costing the company $750,000 in daily gross revenue.

Despite the fire, the company said it was asking all employees except women employed on bottling lines to come to work today.

Williamson Fair To Begin Aug. 9

The Lions clubs of Williamson county will have programs of four nights and the winners will compete on Friday night, Aug. 13 for a grand cash prize.

With a total of 1038 events the fair this year promises to be the largest in the history of the association, and a total of $32,386.50 in purses and premiums will be presented.

Races will be held every night and on Thursday and Friday afternoons. Horse shows, a stock parade and many other features will make the program this year a good one.

Yankees' 'Big Pitcher' Whitey Ford Beats Indians; Dodgers Defeat Cards, 2-1

By FRED DOWN
United Press Sports Writer
Whitey Ford, the cocky little southpaw who felt Manager Casey Stengel's wrath last spring, loomed today as the "big pitcher" who can make the New York Yankees' dreams of a sixth straight American league pennant come true next autumn.

Stengel's "whipping boy" due to lethargic performances during spring training, the 25-year old Ford came through with a brilliant four-hitter Tuesday night to give the Yankees a 2-1 victory over the Cleveland Indians and move them within a game and a half of first place. It was Ford's 11th win of the season and his fifth straight since July 2 when the Yankees began their 24-6 drive on the lead. Ford, who has replaced Alie Reynolds and Ed Lopat as the Yankees' key pitcher, yielded Cleveland's run in the first inning when Larry Doby hit his 23rd homer of the season. He went on to yield only three more singles and struck out six batters while walking four.

Berra Sends Yanks Ahead
The Yankees gave Ford a lead he never lost in the fifth inning when catcher Yogi Berra singled through the drawnpin Cleveland infield after a single by Irv Noren and a double by Mickey Mantle. The blow came off Art Houtteman, who took over Cleveland's pitching in the second inning after starter Don Mossi became ill.

The victory enabled the Yankees to draw "first blood" in the crucial three-game series which continues today and Thursday. It also gave the world champions an 8-7 season's edge over the team they must beat in order to win their sixth consecutive pennant.

The New York Giants maintained their five-game lead in the National league with an easy 7-1 triumph over the Chicago Cubs while the second-place Brooklyn Dodgers defeated the St. Louis Cardinals, 2-1. The Milwaukee Braves beat the Philadelphia Phillies, 3-1, and the Cincinnati Redlegs downed the Pittsburgh Pirates, 7-2, in other NL games.

Gomez Hurls Giant Victory
Ruben Gomez pitched a five-hitter for his 10th win and Hank Thompson blasted his 19th homer with two on in the first inning to spark the Giants to their fifth consecutive triumph. The Giants supported Gomez with a 12-hit attack that included three blows by Al Dark and two by Davey Williams.

Carl Erskine bested Vic Raschi in a fine duel to defeat the Cardinals for the 10th straight time and give him a 16-5 career edge over them. Erskine, gaining his 13th win, struck out nine Cardinals and drove in the Dodgers' winning run with a fifth-inning single.

Converted first baseman Jack Harshman, who struck out 16 batters the last time he faced the Boston Red Sox, fanned seven en route to a 6-2 victory for the Chicago White Sox. Minnie Minoso and Phil Cavarretta drove in two runs each for the White Sox, who have won four of their last 12 games in a desperate effort to stay close to the Indians and Yankees.

Arnold Portocarrero scattered nine hits as the Philadelphia Athletics snapped an eight-game losing streak with a 6-2 conquest of the Baltimore Orioles and Billy Hoel spurned a five-hitter for his fourth shutout of the campaign to give the Detroit Tigers a 2-0 win over the Washington Senators in the other American league games.

Busy Place
NEW HAVEN, Conn. — (UP) — Police didn't object to Ernest Santos' rooming house as such, but they charged him with also operating an unlicensed restaurant, serving untaxed liquor and conducting an unlicensed pawnshop—all in the same building.

Looking AT Sports

By BILL MELTON
Pinkneyville apparently retains a good "one-two" coaching punch to throw at all contenders.

The high school team is in fine hands with "Duster" Thomas remaining at the helm and it is reported that Sammy Miranda, a former star cager at Collinsville high school and later at Indiana university, will coach the grade school cagers this year.

Finis McComas, top flight center on the Grayville high school basketball team that compiled a 28-1 record last season, will enroll at Arkansas State college, according to recent reports.

McComas is a 6-foot, 4-inch performer.

Glenn Jones, who has coached at Vienna high school for several years, probably will be named acting superintendent of the school for the coming term and there will be a vacancy for a basketball-baseball coach.

Jones is Republican candidate for superintendent of schools in Johnson county, and the GOP nomination there is tantamount to election, but he would not take office until sometime during the summer of 1955, making him available for the appointment as superintendent for the coming school term.

Answers to The Sporting News baseball quiz that appeared in this column Tuesday.

1. Feller fanned eight, allowed two bases on balls, two runs, two hits.

2. Medwick failed to participate in a double play in 1935, playing in 154 games.

3. Morris Martin (now with the White Sox) had an 11 won, 4 lost record with Philadelphia.

4. Feller has pitched 11 one-hit games (this includes an eight-inning game on April 23, 1952, he lost to Bob Cain of the St. Louis Browns, 1 to 0).

5. Max Surkont fanned eight consecutive Cincinnati batters, May 25, 1953.

Baseball men following the home run hitting of Willie Mays' sagging, mostly probably will be his crucial month, if he is going to challenge Babe Ruth's record of 60. While much is made of the fact that Ruth hit 17 in September of his record year, says The Sporting News, little is said about his output of only nine in August. With a powerful attack in August, it says, Mays might be in the upper 40s when September opens. He hit number 36 in his ninety-ninth game. Ruth got his thirty-sixth in game Number 110.

The iron man of the Cardinals, Stan Musial, played in his 400th straight game July 21. He hadn't missed a game since opening day of 1952. But he's still far behind Richie Ashburn as a National League iron man. Ashburn, thru July 25, had played 670 games. That, The Sporting News reports, is the longest streak since Gus Suhr set the league record at 822 in 1937.

Sports Briefs

PITTSBURGH — Birdie Tebbetts, the Cincinnati Redlegs' rookie manager, got away with a wise bit of strategy in Tuesday night's game against the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Tebbetts started right-hander Bud Podbielan on the mound but, observing that Pittsburgh had four left-handed hitters in its lineup, yanked Podbielan when he gave up a single to leadoff man Curt Roberts.

Southpaw Joe Nuxhall then entered the game and went the rest of the way against the Pirates, allowing only five hits to win, 7-2.

NEW YORK — Holly Mims of Washington, D. C., third ranking middleweight contender, signed Tuesday to meet unranked Tuto Portuquez of Costa Rica in a 10-round televised bout at Madison Square Garden, Aug. 25.

PHILADELPHIA — Poor Murray Dickson can't win for losing these days with the Philadelphia Phillies.

The veteran right-hander suffered his seventh straight setback Tuesday night, 3-1, to the Milwaukee Braves. Dickson's season record now stands at 7-12.

NEW YORK — Don Mueller, New York Giants' right fielder, was thrown out of a ball game for the first time in 11 seasons of organized baseball Tuesday night by Umpire Augie Donatelli.

In the eighth inning, Mueller hit a fly ball which Chicago Cubs' right fielder Hal Rice dropped. When Mueller tried to take second on the error, Rice threw him out. In disgust, Mueller threw a handful of dirt and was warned by Donatelli. When Mueller threw another handful of dirt, Donatelli threw him out of the game.

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. — The Baltimore Orioles, who did their spring training this season at Yuma, Ariz., will switch next spring to this city.

Arthur Ehlers, general manager of the Orioles, said the facilities in this city were superior to those of other cities considered and that the offer of the local committee was better.

Mathews Changes Stance to Put Milwaukee Braves in Race

By HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Sports Editor

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Discussing the upsurge of the Braves, Charley Grimm talks like a veteran football coach whose team has just won a big one after a poor start.

"This is the same lineup I used when we were 14-2 games out," stresses Manager Grimm. "I wasn't stampeded into making changes that would have made things worse. I knew this was the best lineup we had, so stuck to it. I had faith in these fellows and they came through for me."

What happened to put Milwaukee so suddenly within striking distance and make it a three-way National League race?

Well, for one thing, Eddie Mathews changed his stance. Mathews, the left-hand thumper, wasn't doing so well with an open stance—the right foot down the first base line. So he switched to a square stance, his feet lined up with the pitcher's box.

The result is that the rosy-cheeked Californian is hitting as he did last season, when he became the new home run king of the majors. He's been slugging at a .380 clip.

Grimm had trouble with the clean-up slot. Mathews, Joe Adcock and Andy Pafko got nowhere in particular there. The load appeared too much, so Jolly Cholly, nursing his pet ulcer, put the burden on Henry Aaron, the most under-publicized 20-year-old recruit who ever came down the baseball boulevard.

AARON HAD JUST gone seven for 61, which is 115, but Grimm had faith in the youngster. Grimm was positive he had a clean-up man when the Mobile lad won two successive games, batting in three runs in one and banging a 10th inning homer to account for the other.

Grimm was asked to name the turning point. "The night in Milwaukee when Bobby Thomson singled over shortstop to beat the Giants and help us sweep that important set," replied the Missouri farmer, hesitatingly. "That gave the boys a terrific lift and they took it from there."

With the surprising Aaron in left, Bill Bruton going against both types of pitching in center and Pafko in right field, the question asked Grimm most often these days is: "What would you now be doing with Thomson had he not fractured his ankle?"

"My answer," beams Grimm, "is that Thomson would be in there some place, but the way the other three are traveling I honestly couldn't say where. Just the same, we missed Thomson frightfully during those many days and nights when we weren't making enough runs to go with our pitching."

GRIMM CONTENTS THAT there never was anything wrong with the Sudsville pitching.

Jaycees Beat Carrier Mills, 7-1

The Jaycee team of the Kiwanis baseball league defeated an all-star team of Carrier Mills, 7-1, in a game played Monday evening. Dick Weatherly allowed the all-stars just two hits in a brilliant pitching performance. The Jaycees gave Weatherly good support as they tallied seven times on six hits. Portee was the losing pitcher for the all-stars. Rookie Spurlock took hitting honors as he got two of the Jaycees six hits. Evell was behind the plate for the Jaycees and Thornton for the all-stars.

Dade Park Racing Meeting Opens

DADE PARK, Henderson, Ky.—The 31st meeting of the Dade Park Jockey club was ushered in today to run for 29 days and ending on Labor Day. The meeting is under the direction of James C. Ellis, who has directed all but one of the 31 meetings.

The track for the opening day was heavy following the heaviest rains since last April drenched the track Monday.

This is the second straight year in which the meeting starts on a Wednesday. It proved so popular last season that Ellis decided to give the racing fans three extra days of sport again this year. Formerly the Dade Park meeting went 28 days.

Close Races Open Program At County Fair

Brillafire Noses Out Buddy in Six Furlong Event

If last night's racing program at the Saline County Fair is a good example of what is to come, then racing fans can look forward to one of the best running racing programs ever staged on the local fairgrounds track.

There were five races on the Tuesday night program and in most every case it was a close, hard fight right down to the wire. The six furlong for four-year-olds and upward was probably the closest of them all with Brillafire nosing out Buddy by a "whisker."

Another feature of this race was the fact there were two women riders, Lillian Holder and Joyce Saer. The former had a mount in each race, but Saer, owner of Ellen Valjean, rode when she was unable to get a jockey.

There are races scheduled for tonight, and Thursday afternoon and night to complete the three-day program.

Results of Tuesday's racing—Four and one-half furlongs, 4-year-olds and upward, Mr. R. S., owner Arnold Davis, rider J. Wells; Miss Minnesota, owner Albert Rhodes and Biggerstaff, rider, Young.

Five furlongs, 4-year-olds and upward, Sergeant S., owner B. H. Banks, rider B. Brinkley; Camp George, owner E. Parish, rider Young; Brattan, owner Perry Mumbower, rider K. Brinkley; Jay Glendale, owner Guy Winnill, rider Lillian Holder.

Six furlongs, 4-year-olds and upward, Brillafire, owner Kermit McCormick, rider D. Brinkley; Buddy, owner Wolaver, rider DeLong; Parker County, owners Rhodes and Biggerstaff, rider Young; Laundry Girl, owner B. H. Banks, rider Lillian Holder.

One and one-sixteenth mile, 3-year-old and upward, Crow's Nest, owner Dale Easton, rider J. Wells; Senorita, owner Kermit McCormick, rider B. Brinkley; Busy Abby, owner Wolaver, rider DeLong; Buck Weaver, owner Perry Mumbower, rider K. Brinkley.

One mile, 3-year-old and upward, Bank Club, owner Perry Mumbower, rider K. Brinkley; Plaid Lock, owner John Janison, rider Lillian Holder; K. O. Lister, owner, Ralph Perry, rider Isaac; Hunter's Pride, owner Bill Rhodes, rider DeLong.

Negotiate Sale Of A's for Move To Kansas City

NEW YORK — (UP) — Arnold Johnson, the Chicago realtor who negotiated the sale of Yankee Stadium, said today he wanted "to know in the next week or two" whether he can buy the Philadelphia Athletics and transfer the American League franchise to Kansas City.

"I believe I've made a fair and substantial offer for the team," Johnson said. "I don't know when the Athletics' officials intend making up their minds, but I want to know in the next week or two."

Johnson said he understands the Athletics have scheduled a club directors' meeting for next Wednesday but "I have no idea whether they intend making a decision at that meeting."

Johnson revealed plans to expand Kansas City's stadium from its current seating capacity of 17,200 to "35,000 or 36,000."

Johnson did not reveal the amount of his offer but it is estimated at about 4 million dollars. Under such an arrangement, Connie Mack and his sons, Earle and Roy, would get $700,000 each with the remainder of the money cancelling debts reported at more than $800,000.

In Kansas City, hopes were high that the transfer of the franchise to that city is near.

Residents of Kansas City went to the polls Tuesday to vote on a 2 million dollar bond issue to buy the American Association ball park for use as a major league field. Indications were the issue had been approved. With 276 of 366 precincts reporting, the vote was 47,674 in favor and 10,556 opposed. Two-thirds was required to carry the issue.

Kerr Asks Federal Drought Aid in Letter to Stratton

The following letter has been sent to Governor William G. Stratton by Gordon E. Kerr, Republican, Representative from the 51st district, requesting Federal drought aid for the farmers of Pope, Johnson, Saline, and Massac counties:

July 30th.

Honorable William G. Stratton
Governor, State of Illinois
Springfield, Ill.

Dear Governor:

On behalf of the farmers of the following counties: Pope, Johnson, Saline and Massac, I am writing in regard to Federal aid.

Since the first survey was made the situation in these counties has become critical. The farmers of this area are not looking for Federal hand-outs, they only expect some help from the Government because of this disastrous drought.

This is the third straight year these counties have gone through a severe drought. There are belts that are ruined, rains could not help the crops now. Pastures are burned up, and farmers are forced to sell their stock at a loss. Certainly these counties are in a drought hit area.

Knowing of your great interest in the farmers and citizens of Illinois I am sure that you will do all in your power to have these counties listed in the Federal Drought area.

With kindest personal regards, I am

Sincerely yours,
Gordon E. Kerr
51st district

BITTER SAGE

By Frank Gruber

Copyright 1954 by Frank Gruber

THE STORY: Wes Tancred, who killed the "Robin Hood" outlaw, Sam Older, is an out-cast and working under the name of John Bailey at a stage station in Kansas in 1877. Three men ride up and threaten Vesser, the agent. Tancred knows they intend to rob the stage-coach, due the next day.

II

Jethro was taking his second drink as Tancred came up. Dave ran his eyes up and down Tancred's lean figure.

"How many people does this stage usually carry?"

Tancred shrugged. "It varies. Sometimes five or six, sometimes only one or two. Once in a while there aren't any passengers at all."

"Think carefully, now," said the squat man, wickedly. "Does the stage carry a strong box?"

"No."

The outlaw grabbed the whiskey bottle from Jethro, took a great swig then passed it on to Dave. With a sudden spring he leaped forward and hit Tancred in the face with the back of his hand.

"I asked you about a strong box."

"And I told you."

The short man rocked Tancred's head with a backhanded swipe.

"What about a shotgun guard?"

"Don't do that again," Tancred said, evenly.

The little man took a step back.

"Why, he's got spunk," he said, mockingly. He winked at Dave.

"Shall we tell him who we are?"

Dave shrugged. "He's a horse-handler. He's probably never even heard of us."

"Everybody's heard of Sam Older," chorled the squat man. He pointed at Tancred. "Even you."

Tancred said in an even, flat tone, "Sam Older's dead."

"Sure, but Dick Small ain't!"

The short one tapped his chest. "Or Dave Helm." He indicated Dave.

Nine years ago Dick Small had been a thin man about six inches taller than the one who now called himself Dick Small. And Dave Helm... this man wasn't Dave Helm, not in a thousand years.

Tancred looked at Jethro. "And I suppose he's... Wes Tancred."

Jethro took that as a deadly insult. "Don't you accuse me of being that dirty traitor..."

Tancred backed away. "How was I to know? Seems to me, I heard men talking about the Older gang and the name Tancred..."

"Don't mention Older and Tancred in the same breath," cried the man who called himself Dick Small.

"I'm just a horse-handler," Tancred said.

Tancred started away but Dave grabbed his arm and whirled him around. "You didn't answer Dick's question—about the stage carrying a shotgun guard."

"I've never seen one," said Tancred. He waited a moment.

"Can I go now?"

"Sure," said Dave. "As long as you stay in sight." He nodded toward the stage station. "And I don't mean in there."

Tancred went into the corral.

Morning came and Tancred came out of the shed where he had slept. The outlaws, two of them, were still sleeping beside the corral. The third, Jethro, was seated on the ground, his back to the corral poles, cleaning his gun with a dirty rag. As filthy as the three men were about their own persons, their guns were cleaned and well-oiled. Guns were the tools of their trade.

Jethro sprang to his feet. "You're going to get those horses ready for the stage, just as if nothing was going to happen?"

"My job is feeding and watering, and taking care of these horses," Tancred went into the corral.

When he came out the outlaws were all up and in the stage station, eating their breakfast. He went into the shed and with a quick look over his shoulder, moved far in to the manger that was used by the horses during bad weather. It was half-filled with hay.

Tancred moved aside some of the hay and exposed a weathered carpetbag. He stared at it for a long moment then shook his head and covered it again with hay.

When he went outside, Dave was coming out of the stage station. "Your breakfast's ready."

He smacked his lips. "That girl cooks all right."

Tancred crossed the yard and entered the station. Dick and Jethro were just finishing their breakfast, but Vesser sat at the plain table, his corncakes barely touched.

Tancred sat down opposite him and Laura brought him cakes and coffee. He ate and spoke no word to her or her father and when he finished eating he went outside.

He hurried the horses in the corral until their coats glistened. He rubbed them down with wisps of hay and curried them again. But at last he could work in the corral no longer and he came out.

The man who called himself Dave Helm looked at Tancred and said, "It's eating out your insides, isn't it? I don't know why it should. You're only a horse wrangler and the stage line shouldn't mean a thing to you."

"It doesn't."

"They can afford to lose anything we take from them." He looked thoughtfully toward the station.

The outlaws had their dinner at 12, but Tancred went without his. At 1 o'clock he got out the harness and got his six-horse team ready. A cloud of dust to the north told him that the stage was en time.

The outlaws saddled up their mounts, tied them to the top pole of the corral. Jethro climbed to the top of the corral and studied the approaching stage.

He climbed to the ground. "Ten minutes."

Vesser came out of the stage station. His revolver was in his hand. "Look!" said the squat man.

Tancred cried out, "Throw down the gun... please!"

Vesser came toward the corral. Jethro edged over to the right. Dave to the left and Dick remained in the middle. Vesser was still 70 or 75 feet away and he thrust out his gun as he walked and fired.

The bullet missed Dick by three feet.

Dick's first bullet didn't miss. Nor did Jethro's or Dave's. Vesser's gun went off once more but the bullet went toward the sky.
